

THE CAT is wearing a collar. Her owner must be looking for her.

Gina suggests putting up posters around the neighborhood and The Inseparables get to work, since there's no time to lose. Zac will make the poster and write the information it needs on it. Oliver, with his mother's help, will post an announcement on the internet on a website for lost animals.

Without even realizing it, The Inseparables are embarking on a new adventure.

TAKING CARE OF SHADOW

is a responsibility, which is why they have decided to divide up the chores that they need to do between them. They each get one: to feed her, give her fresh water, clean out the cat litter, brush her... Zac, the great artist in the gang, takes charge of drawing a chart with the chores and the days of the week.

LUKAS HAS tabulated with his calculator how much it would cost to keep Shadow. They need litter for the box and, above all, food! Gina suggests that they all brainstorm ideas to find a solution. Oliver, who loves parties, suggests having a party at the school to raise funds. Tom and Pat think that it's a great idea.

