

Four hammocks

Orangutan has made up four hammocks where his friends can sleep. He put a pretty sheet and pillow on each of them. Since all of them want to sleep in the highest hammock, they'll have to draw lots to see which of them gets it.

Crocodile, Elephant and Tiger are getting tired of Orangutan's silliness and stare at him angrily. Orangutan still does not realize how much they really want to sleep! Then Orangutan puts on a sad face. He thinks that his friends might play with him if they see how sad he is.

Want to sleep!

Crocodile explains that the next part of the game is to close their eyes and think about what they all could play tomorrow. Oh! And it's very important to be still and silent in your hammock because the first one who talks or gets up loses the game.

Next game

